Art Unit: 3723

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 40, 41, 45, 52, and 53 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dearman in view of Haumann et al.

Dearman shows force applying units 38 coupled by a moveable pivot to form a chain of force applying units. A first end coupling unit 22 is connected to a first end support 49 which is connected to a first anchor 33. A second end coupling unit 20 is connected to second end support 28 which is connected to a second anchor 26.

Haumann et al teaches that a plurality of force applying units used for clamping a workpiece may be simultaneously actuated by pneumatic or hydraulic means. The examiner takes Official Notice that force applying units may be fluid or mechanical such my means of a screw and that these mechanical units may similarly be simultaneously actuated in a manner similar to that shown in Haumann et al.

Claims 1-2, 4, 12, 21, 25, 26, 29, 30, 31, 42 and 54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dearman in view of Haumann et al supra and further in view of Snyder.

The coupling units of Dearman are not lockable.

Snyder teaches that coupling units may have lockable pivots (22,23) comprising a ball and socket.

Art Unit: 3723

To make the coupling unit pivots of Dearman lockable and also to comprise a ball and socket would have been obvious for one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made in view of the disclosure of Snyder. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to do this in order to provide a more stable clamping structure.

Claims 7, 8, 11, 14, 15, and 55 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dearman in view of Haumann et al and Snyder supra and further in view of Smith.

Smith teaches that a lockable pivot may be actuated externally by pneumatic means using a solenoid (column 8, line 15).

To actuate the lockable pivots supra externally by pneumatic means using a solenoid would have been obvious for one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made in view of the disclosure of Smith. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to do this in order to reduce manual effort in using the clamp arrangement. Whether the force applying means is pneumatic or an electric operated screw is no more than an obvious matter of design choice absent a showing of criticality for this feature.

Claims 3, 5-6, 9-10, 13, 16-20, 22-24, 27-28, 32-39, 43, 46-51, 56-60 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 12/5/05.
